

HELP FOR HIGH SCHOOL PARENTS

You could see she was safe back then.

Can you help her be safe
when she's out of sight?

After carefully nurturing your child all these years, sending them off to college can be difficult and confusing. You may be asking yourself: How "hands-off" should I be? What's it like on today's college campuses? Are there resources that can help me parent my child through this stage of life?

We Can Help.

For over 60 years Campus Crusade for Christ (Cru), has been helping college students thrive in their faith on the college campus. Now we have designed an evening especially for you, the parent. The evening will include:

Private reception and seminar by Ben Burns: What Your Child Needs From You for Spiritual Success in College

Opportunity to interact with other parents who have college bound seniors

Personal conversation with recent college graduates about their campus experience

Ben Burns, a Cru staff member and founder of CollegePrep.org, has helped hundreds of high school seniors be better prepared for the move to college. A professional comedian, seminary-trained, and Family Life speaker, Ben has rich insights regarding the role of parents during this transitional phase. After addressing the parents during these evening events, Ben will switch hats and lead a roomful of college bound seniors through the Transition Track on Saturday.
